James McConville met with leaders Sept. 16 to learn how Army Materiel Command is working to meet the Army’s modernization and reform initiatives, and enabling readiness at the tactical and strategic levels. Gen. Gus Perna, AMC commanding general, highlighted initiatives that support Army objectives, including supply chain improvements, exercise support, facilities investment, Organic Industrial Base modernization, and support for Soldiers and families.

Readiness, mission priorities top August Month in Review

REDSTONE ARSENAL, Ala. – The August Month in Review features Gen. Gus Perna’s readiness discussion with leaders of the Army’s Organic Industrial Base during a summit at Army Materiel Command Headquarters, priorities outlined during the AMC legal advisors training meeting, AMC senior leader comments on the impact the Sexual Harassment/Assault Response and Prevention program has on Army readiness, and the Medical Logistics Command’s readiness test during a tabletop exercise.

Raising the bar to reduce aviation maintenance time

REDSTONE ARSENAL, Ala. – As supply availability continues to improve, raising Army aviation standards on readiness is the next target for Army Aviation and Missile Command. AMCOM leaders updated the Commander of Army Materiel Command, Gen. Gus Perna, on the organization’s successes, challenges and way forward in a quarterly briefing, Sept. 10. AMCOM Commander, Maj. Gen. Todd Royar, noted marked improvements in supply availability have prompted the organization to focus on reducing maintenance time for aircraft and missile systems.

Accountability, output highlight focus of AMC CG visit to ACC

REDSTONE Arsenal, Ala. – During a quarterly update to the Army Materiel Command, the Army Contracting Command discussed workload capacity and analysis, accountability, and contracting output in relation to readiness. Gen. Gus Perna, AMC commander, received briefings Sept. 11 from Maj. Gen. Paul Pardew, ACC commanding general, as well as other leaders from ACC’s subordinate commands and centers. Additional topics during the update included strategic support for focus areas as well as ACC’s support to other major commands.

Security assistance takes initiative to work smarter

REDSTONE ARSENAL, Ala. – Security Assistance Command continuously improves its tools to monitor financial operations, industry supply chain gaps and security assistance training integration. These tools, which track resources that increase the Army’s readiness, were the focus of the quarterly visit by Gen. Gus Perna, commander of Army Materiel Command. USASAC Commander Maj. Gen. Jeff Drushal set the scene for showing how this presentation would demonstrate the command’s continuous improvements on past queries and guidance from AMC.
